

The best part of school are your friends. Friends are the best people to talk to, do homework with, and have fun with. If it weren't for your friends, school would be as boring as watching grass grow. I love my friends.

First of all, I love to chat with my friends. Lunchtime is paradise to us because we can do almost anything. We like to tease each other about girls we know the others don't like. Laughing when you have milk in your mouth is a big mistake, because your friends try to get you to spew it. In school, lunch is the best place for you to laugh, talk, and hang out with your friends.

Second comes the most hated, most procrastinated, and most "I forgot" part of school... Homework! My friends always help each other with homework. We don't mind sharing answers every once in a while, as long as both people give answers. We're not all that good with science, or don't understand our math, so we help each other out. We remind each other about it. If we didn't help each other out, A's and B's wouldn't be the only thing on our report cards.

(USE NEXT PAGE TO CONTINUE)

G 23b

Third is the best part about friends, the fun. I love to go over to their houses, or go to a movie downtown. We horse-laugh telling jokes, and roll in the floor watching TV. We always manage to have a great time together no matter what we're doing. Having fun with your friends is the best and most important thing you can do with them.

All in all, friends make school worth while. You can just talk together, do homework, or go and have fun. Without friends, all of school would be as boring as watching an educational video. A slow, steady, put-you-to-sleep process. Friends and school ~~are~~ like peas and carrots you can't have one without the other.

G 23b

our math, so we help each other out.

We remind each other about it. If we didn't help each other out, A's and B's wouldn't be the only thing on our report cards.

Third is the best part about friends, the fun. I love to go over to their houses, or go to a movie downtown. We horse-laugh telling jokes, and roll in the floor watching TV. We always manage to have a great time together no matter what we're doing. Having fun with your friends is the best and most important thing you can do with them.

All in all, friends make school worth while. You can just talk together, do homework, or go and have fun. Without friends, all of school would be as boring as watching an educational video. A slow, steady, put-you-to-sleep process. Friends and school ~~are~~ like peas and carrots you can't have one without the other.

Score Point 6